

The Employer Case for Cannabis Breath Testing

Changing laws lead to increased cannabis use and workplace risks. Discontinuing THC testing may seem like a convenient solution, but it can result in unexpected costs.

ON-THE-JOB ISSUES ATTRIBUTED TO CANNABIS USE*

Cannabis use at work can harm both your employees and your bottom line.

DETER CANNABIS USE + MITIGATE RISK

The connection between cannabis use and workplace incidents can create significant safety and reputational risks for employers. Specifically testing for and isolating recent cannabis use gives companies the ability to retain employees while continuing drug testing programs that may help reduce costly accidents, absenteeism, performance concerns, and reputational risks.

"THE COST TO REPLACE AN EMPLOYEE IS $10K WHEN RECRUITMENT, ONBOARDING, AND TRAINING COSTS ARE CONSIDERED."

The HOUND® CANNABIS BREATHALYZER is intended to detect recent cannabis use. It does not measure whether, or how much, a person is impaired. It is intended solely for use in employment, law enforcement, and insurance settings. It should not be used for any medical or therapeutic purposes, or for any Federal drug testing programs, such as programs run by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), the Department of Transportation (DOT), and the U.S. military.
